If it is someone else's email address/ name here, then just click on the little down arrow and select/ type in yours instead.

This will only happen on shared devices: make sure you are logging in at the right person!

It might try to suggest another name first: just click next until you get to this screen with the little arrow to change the username to yours.

Notice how the "sign in" is now replaced with my initial, as I am logged in.

The Waffle (9 dots) to the left of this icon, opens up all my Google tools.
